ENFORCEMENT BILL PASSES

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE governor, after all, had the last word in his argument with the legislature over the law-enforcement measure which proposes to give circuit judges authority to remove sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys for lax enforcement. The House of Representatives defeated this bill Wednesday—but reversed itself Thursday and approved it on a broad hint from the governor that otherwise he would veto the Thorn liquor bill.

Here is the situation in a nutshell: The United States failed to regulate the sale of liquor, and went to statutory prohibition.

That, too, failed. And we realize today that both failed for the same reason—too lenient enforcement measures, and the chronic American disrespect for law.

The "drys" say that the "wets" won't obey the law—but the fact is that Americans quite generally disobey all law.

This was the last nation on earth that should have attempted statutory prohibition of liquor—we were the least qualified to make prohibition prohibit.

In turning back to the regulation of liquor, therefore, we can profit from our experience under both regulation and prohibition.

Legal sale of liquor must be accompanied by the most hard-boiled law administration we have ever seen.

X X X

The Thorn bill provides, among other things:

1. Sale of liquor by package only.
2. Prohibition of sales on Sunday, or between 1 o'clock and 7 in the morning.
3. Prohibition of sales to minors, chronic drunkards, or persons already under the influence of liquor.

It is not liquor itself that makes for social evils—but the manner in which it is consumed.

It is the fewest possible bottle dispensers, with stern prohibition of public drinking places, the danger would be materially lessened.

X X X

In any event, we are starting off on a new program of regulation—and this newspaper wants to say to its community that the regulations will be enforced insofar as the public press can bring about enforcement.

We fought for repeal.

But from now on we will make it our duty to publish to the world those who violate the regulations under which liquor is to be sold.

We can do that—we have done it in the past.

The old El Dorado News in 1923 sent out under-cover men in Union county and obtained evidence against 55 barrel-houses, driving them out of the oil fields.

If liquor is once more legal, then every violator of right and reasonable regulations is a public enemy—and the hand of every citizen should be against him.

The enforcement issue is local, always was local, and always will be. It calls for a hard and uncompromising public policy, regulating an article known to be dangerous, but which men down through the ages never have been willing to do without.

Share the Wealth Is National Issue

Redistribution of Money Advocated From Highest Sources

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Redistribution of money—whether capital or income—burst forth Thursday as a fast-moving ball of political dynamite headed toward the 1936 election contests.

From the very throne of banking, control—the governorship of the Federal Reserve Board—was heard advocacy of a new distribution of the nation's income.

The distribution of wealth has the support of some of President Roosevelt's most influential supporters, including Senator Norris, Nebraska independent.

GHEVGHELLI, Greek-Yugoslav Frontier—Despite announcement of the Athens government that it has the situation in hand and expects soon to crush the bloody revolution, Americans in Greece Wednesday night considered the situation highly dangerous.

Marital law prevails throughout Greece. The whole country appears paralyzed with fear and misgivings. Rail, telephone and telegraphic communications are cut off and normal activities suspended.

While Greece, proper, apparently was free from military clashes, Eastern Macedonia, Epirus and the Greek islands were the followers of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos dominated area to be in a state of ferment.

Heavy fighting with serious losses between government troops and rebels in the Struma valley, which during the World War was a most bitterly contested area between the Allies and the Central powers.

The government seems reluctant to force an attack upon the rebels in any larger scale than at present for fear of plunging the country into a fratricidal civil war of unestimated proportions.

After blowing up a bridge in the Struma valley, the rebels destroyed a railroad line connecting Salonika and Constantinople.

About 300 Americans live in this area, but so far as is known, they are safe. They are connected with the Standard Oil Company, three American tobacco companies and the Thim Engineering Company which is carrying out a huge drainage and canalization enterprise on the Struma river.

Long Again Flays Senator Robinson

Arkansas's Law Practice Under Fire—and Joe Angrily Replies

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Huey P. Long, purporting another free-for-all in the senate Wednesday by renewing his campaign against Postmaster General Farley, and slamming at the New Deal in general.

Long started the row by filing formal charges against Farley, also chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and in the ensuing hubbub the "Kingfish" announced definitely that he would be a candidate for the senate next year.

The senate was in an argumentative mood after its word brawl of Tuesday and Senator Hastings, Republican, Delaware, drew fire at the outset by commenting that those who heard a recent address by Secretary Rogers' administration accomplishments thought they "were listening to the children's hour."

Long later added to the disturbance by saying he could prove his sweeping accusations against Farley but Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, whose postoffice committee for the third successive day discussed without a decision Long's resolution for an investigation of Farley, ripped into the outspoken "Kingfish," McKellar said the senate was getting tired of his "constant nagging."

Then, when Long filed into the record a long list of public utility corporations advertised as clients of Senator Robinson's law firm, the Arkansas senator turned loose on Louisiana.

Land, sea and air fighting was reported as the Greek revolt to restore Premier Venizelos to power spread. This map shows the key areas in the plot. Richberg Pleads Extension on NRA

Would Drop Back to Interstate Commerce Regulation Only

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Donald Richberg, outlining the administration's views, asked the senate finance committee Thursday to extend the NRA "substantially in its present form for two years," but with codes limited to "those trades and industries actually engaged in interstate commerce."

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—In calling that the National Industrial Recovery Act was unconstitutional insofar as it pertained to industries engaged solely in interstate manufacturing, Judge Wayne G. Borah in federal court here expressed himself orally as believing the "whole NRA is unconstitutional."

Judge Borah's ruling was made in denying a government petition for an injunction restraining the Hammond Box company of Hammond, La., from further alleged violations of the hour and wage provision of the lumber code.

The decision applies only to manufacturers who manufacture solely within a state but whose products were sold in interstate commerce.

The jurist's verbal opinion that he believed the "whole thing" unconstitutional was made in explanation of his action in denying the government's petition.

The company is engaged in the manufacture of boxes which are sold to farmers for shipment of fruit and vegetables outside of Louisiana.

"The present case has an interstate commerce feature," said Judge Borah. "If I grant an injunction against the Hammond concern, then I am restraining it, and doing it an injustice. The Hammond factory has competitors out of the jurisdiction of the court."

Missouri to Vote 2 Pct. Sales Tax

Lower House Favors Increase From 1 1/2 by 69 to 68 Vote

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(AP)—By one vote, the house late Wednesday adopted an amendment to increase the rate in the sales tax bill from 1 1/2 of one percent to 2 percent.

The amendment, offered by Representative Roy Hamlin, Democratic floor leader, was approved, 69 to 68. The vote came after three hours of heated debate.

The affirmative side on the two percent proposal led seven votes short of the 75 needed for final passage. Proponents of the higher rate were confident that they could gain the additional votes needed for passage.

The Republicans lined up almost solidly against the higher rate.

Under plans of the 2 percent advocates, merchant would be required to pass the tax on to consumers.

Perfection of the bill, which was agreed upon late last week by the

Acres Must Be Cut 35 Per Cent

Necessary If Total Crop Is to Be Held to 11 1/2 Million Bales

Cotton contract signers must reduce their acreage the full 35 per cent permitted under this year's contract if production is to be held down to 11,500,000 bales—the amount of cotton needed to meet market requirements according to an investigation of the present cotton supply by AAA officials, Frank R. Stanley, county agent, said today.

"Estimates show that a crop of about 11,500,000 bales will be produced in the cotton belt, provided producers who signed 1934 contracts and those who sign 1935 contracts reduce the 35 per cent permitted, and provided, of course, yields are no more than average," Mr. Stanley said.

It will be to the advantage of individual cotton producers in Hempstead county, Mr. Stanley explained, to remove 35 per cent of their base acreage from cotton production and receive maximum rental and benefit payments, because AAA officials have said, that in no case will the base used in making allotments of tax-exemption certificates be more than 65 per cent of a producer's base production.

Producers were cautioned by Mr. Stanley against planting more than 65 per cent of their base acreage with the anticipation of buying surplus exemption certificates at reduced prices this fall. He said cotton section officials had informed him that recommendations will be made for provisions which will prevent surplus ex-

Cargile Resigns His Highway Post

Arkadelphian Bows to Will of Aroused Legislative Majority

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Secretary Roy Sjyence of the Arkansas Highway Commission announced Thursday afternoon that Dave Block, commissioner of Wynne, had been unanimously elected chairman of the commission, succeeding J. S. Cargile of Arkadelphia, resigned.

Cargile Resigns

LITTLE ROCK—J. S. Cargile of Arkadelphia, chairman of the State Highway Commission, Wednesday night handed Governor Futrell the resignation he has had ready since the legislature launched an attack to remove him from office.

The governor accepted the resignation and said he had no one in mind as Mr. Cargile's successor.

The house and the senate have passed a bill to create a new Highway Commission composed of seven members, one from each Congressional district, whereas the present commission is composed of five members selected at large.

The original bill, by Senator Taylor, provided that present members serve out their terms, except that where two members are from the same district, the one whose term expires first would be automatically removed.

That would have removed Chairman Cargile. The house added an amendment not yet acted upon by the senate, designed to permit the governor to choose between Cargile and C. H. Murphy, of El Dorado, in the same district.

Actually, the amendment, in the opinion of some members of the commission, would eliminate both members from that district.

Mr. Cargile has headed the commission for the past two years. He took office after the ouster of the old highway board, of which Dwight Blackwood was chairman.

Another measure which may be brought up Thursday is the Hall sales tax bill already passed by the senate. A bitter fight against the measure, appears certain.

Greyhound Racing Bill

The debate on the greyhound racing bill was participated in by 16 members. Speaker Thorn, one of the 16 who signed the bill, led the fight for its passage, and was the first speaker. Other proponents heard were Mason of Ouachita, Childers of Lawrence, Hampton of Lee, Roney of Woodruff, and Christian of Yell. Opposing the measure were Thompson of Independence, McCollum of Monroe, Thomas of Hot Springs, Clerget of Conway county, Crawley of Mississippi and Gooch of Cross. All declared they were motivated primarily by a desire to raise revenue for the state's universities.

State Monopoly Issue Draws Sharp Exchange at Austin

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Bitter debate over proposed repeal of state prohibition rocked the Texas legislature Wednesday dividing interest with new moves to control the oil industry.

While senate and house wrangled over whether the state should set up a liquor monopoly system, if prohibition were repealed next August, Gov. James V. Allred signed a bill ordering abeyance before issuance of injunctions against the Railroad Commission in oil proration cases.

Mark Shank Is to Die in Electric Chair on Friday

Sends for Pine Bluff Priest to Give Last Consolation

HE FEIGNS INSANITY

Warden Finds Other Prisoners Find Him Normal When With Them

LITTLE ROCK.—The last hope for Mark Shank, the Akron (O.) lawyer, who poisoned four persons, apparently vanished Wednesday night and everything indicated that he will go to the electric chair Friday morning after his execution had been delayed four times by his lawyers' maneuvers.

Governor Futrell said Wednesday that he would be willing to grant an additional delay if Mrs. Shank wanted to bid farewell to her husband and found it impossible to reach the Tucker farm before Friday morning.

However, a dispatch from Akron said that Mrs. Shank was too ill to attempt the journey.

Developments in the case came in quick succession.

S. L. Todhunter, superintendent of the prison system, said that Shank aroused from his apparent state of lethargy Tuesday night when he learned of the governor's order for the execution Friday.

Slew Family

Shank was arrested within several hours after Alvin Colley, his wife and two children died from strychnine poisoning administered them in grape juice. Another child recovered. Shortly before the trial began at Benton, Shank apparently went into a stupor and he sat most of the week in court without apparent interest in the proceedings. Even his wife's sobs failed to arouse him.

Since his admittance to the death cell, Shank has spent most of his time lying on a cot. Whenever visitors or officials approached the deathhouse, Shank usually covered his head.

Pate and Brown contended that Shank became insane since his conviction. Four times Shank has been granted a stay. Tuesday the lawyers filed a non-suit in federal court and announced they would appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Several hours later Governor Futrell issued a proclamation decreeing that the lawyer die Friday.

Nerve Believed Insane

Superintendent Todhunter, who reportedly had refused to submit Shank to insanity hearing, said Wednesday he always had been convinced that

YOUR HEALTH

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Stand, Sit, Walk Tall, and Think Tall, Too!

The funnel chest, the chicken breast, the round shoulder in children and grownups are signs of bad body formation and result from bad habits of sitting, standing and lying down. They should want to maintain a good posture, no matter what your activity may be.

An article just published by Hygiene, the Health Magazine, gives these 10 commandments for good posture:

1. Stand tall.
2. Sit tall.
3. Walk tall and "chesty," with weight transmitted to the balls of your feet.
4. Draw in your abdomen, pulling it back and up.
5. Keep your shoulders square and high, but not hunched.
6. Pull your chin straight back.
7. Flatten the hollow of your back by rolling your pelvis down and back.
8. Separate your shoulders from your hips as far as possible.
9. Lie tall and flat. Sleep tall.
10. Sitting occupies a tremendous amount of a child's time from the day it enters kindergarten until it completes its education. "Although it may observe an excellent posture when standing or walking or running and even when lying in bed, the amount of time spent sitting incorrectly, in school may overcome all the benefit derived from observing good posture elsewhere."

However, the question of posture concerns not only children in school, but all who sit at their work. Another group who suffer with bad posture are singers, dancers and musicians, who spend many hours in certain positions and so develop strange curves of their bodies.

The organ most largely concerned in posture is the spinal column. This is made up of many segments, which fit together in a line with certain curves. These curves are developed by the spine to enable the human being to balance himself properly on two legs. When the spine curves in the wrong ways, as a result of disease or of bad posture, symptoms develop in addition to the odd appearance.

Many persons get bad posture from wrong habits of standing, sitting, walking and sleeping. They slide down in their chairs or develop strange attitudes to meet the fashions. This is particularly the case in girls.

Bad posture also results in cramping of the organs within the abdomen, interfering with action of heart, lungs, and diaphragm.

Another factor involved in bad posture is strain on the eyes. If a child sits in proper relationship to its work, the eyes will be at a correct distance from the work and the illumination will be thrown on the page satisfactorily.

The most modern schools take account of all these factors, and arrange both pupil and desk properly.

Biology Popularized for Average Reader—This Two-Volume Work Gives Facts—and Entertainment

"Biology for Everyman," by the late Sir J. Arthur Thomson, is a fine work for the shelf of the citizen who likes to carry on a bit of self-education in his leisure time.

It is a broad, authoritative survey of the whole of living nature—biology made easy, so to speak, but still kept scientific and addressed to adult minds.

The author has shown singular ability at the difficult task of writing a scientific work which contains a genuine popular appeal. The two fat volumes of this work—which run to some 630,000 words and is set off by 500 illustrations—give you all the regular textbook material about species, sub-species, evolutionary development and so on, all set off with unpronounceable Latin names; but along with this is a wealth of the kind of thing that the ordinary reader wants to learn when he sits down to read about living creatures.

Thus, for instance, there is an informal discussion of the odd habits of

Protect Your Lamb Against March Cold—Breezes Are Apt to Lead to Sneezes

March is taking time by the forelock and stepping up in line before February has quite blown out. March is no sissy. He is tough and rough and deceitful, the outlaw month, the black-sheep and the villain.

And wouldn't this step-son of the war god come along at the very time of the year when most of us are the least prepared?

We feel so safe with that tang of spring in the air. The generous patches of deep-blue sky fooling us into thinking that Pluto has released Prosperine and Ceres is herself again. The kids leave their helmets under the radio and run out bareheaded into the wind—kites get their annual exercise and marbles play grace-notes against the corner fence. Base balls are spit upon and bats go smacking their prey into space. Stone steps and even the ground offer new allure. Just more trumps of Enemy March to do his stuff.

Resistance Is Low. He blows all the dirty winter dust into the babies' eyes and mouths and ears. Each dust particle, be sure, is a miniature airplane for goodness-knows-what germ.

Physically, almost the whole pack of us are low in resistance. There may have been compensations for the absent sun in the way of cod-liver oil tonics, but as a rule only the little tads get it. Anyway winter has left many children with a resistance average below normal and that's a fact.

So don't let's get careless for a while. Above all watch the wind. Plain cold doesn't hurt anyone if he keeps dry and is warmly dressed, but windy, dusty weather, and windy damp weather, warm or cold, is dangerous.

For one thing, mothers, ears and throats are vulnerable just now, especially if children have kept their ears muffled all winter out-doors. Don't allow them to go out unprotected now. Those with tendency to ear, throat or sinus trouble need to be extra-carefully watched. Any tendency to pain or soreness behind an ear needs a doctor's eye and verdict at once, even though you may know how to cope with other simpler symptoms from past experience.

Colds Start Worse Ills Common colds are a peg on which March loves to hang his head-gear while he gets in dirtier work. So make the children take care of themselves, give mother, and don't stand for nonsense.

Clean handkerchiefs or the soft sanitary tissues now in use, should be part of every child's equipment each day, cold or no cold.

The right way to give simple enarration: in case of infection can quickly be explained by your doctor. The right way to gargle with salt-water or whatever you use for either sore throat or its prevention can easily be learned by any child of four or over. There is a time and a place for the doctor, but always give the benefit of the least little doubt to the doctor.

Watch little babies in their prams. Keep them sheltered from dust. They are closer to the street with its unseen enemies than you. Show General March that you have outsmarted him once again.

Emil Cacciolli, a vice-president of the Great Northern Fur Dyeing Co., testified in court racketeers bombed his home in Queens county, N. Y., in 1933, and sent him a bill for $2,000 for "expenses of bombing."

Wedding a dime into a tree trunk and driving a ten-foot plank through the chassis and steel body of an overturned automobile were two freakish stunts performed by tornadoes during 1934.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Beauty Is True to Type As far as the beauty-minded woman is concerned, the current song hit, "Stay As Sweet As You Are," might very well be changed to "Stay Just As You Are." In other words, a smart girl should find her type and dramatize it.

The most glamorous film actresses whether on screen or off, seldom step out of their roles. Greta Garbo wouldn't think of appearing in public in a frilly frock. She knows perfectly well that polo coats and slouchy sports hats are her particular forte—her stock in trade if you like—and she makes the most of them.

Helen Hayes, on the other hand, goes in for more feminine-looking clothes which suit her best. However, tailored or feminine, the result is the same. Each actress manages to maintain a certain individuality that makes her outstanding. And any woman, young or old, can do virtually the same thing with equal success.

Cheer Clothes for Your Type The next time you go out to buy new clothes, ask the saleswoman to bring you one dressmaker (feminine) outfit, including accessories, and one very tailored ensemble. Put on the first, fluff your hair about your face, and look in the mirror for ten minutes in a more conservative manner, try on the tailored costume. Buy the outfit which really flatters your figure, mannerisms and gait. Then see that all of your new spring dresses carry out the same general theme.

The same rule applies when you decide on a coiffure. A small, Dresden China type of blonde never should wrap halo braids around her little head. She ought to leave them for tall, rather stately girls, choosing a less regal type herself.

Masses of ringlets look rather silly on tailored women. Sleek, straight hair arrangements are out of place on petite girls with pert turned-up noses and nineteen-inch waists. There are a dozen more rules and comparisons, but after all, no one can tell you exactly what to do with your personal appearance. You must experiment yourself. And, once you have found clothes, coiffure and makeup that really enhance your individuality, stick to them.

Huey May Go on Stump Against Joe

Long and Robinson Exchange Bitter Remarks in U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, his face glowing with anger, climaxed a furious word battle with Huey Long Tuesday by saying that "it is time for the senate to put the Louisiana in his proper place."

Buck came Huey with a threat to campaign next year against the Senate Democratic leader in Arkansas where the "kingfish" went in 1932 and won credit for electing Senator Hattie Caraway.

"We are going to have it out next year in Louisiana and Arkansas," Long declared.

He said he was prepared to "go into Robinson's bailiwick" and invited him, if he choose, to "come into mine, if he can get anybody to listen to him."

Then by way of variety, Chesley W. Journey, Senate sergeant-at-arms, scorched Robert Brothers, one of Long's friends, who was in the gallery, for weapons. Brothers was unarmed. Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, had, during debate on the floor, asked Long if he kept an armed guard in the gallery. Long said he did not.

Shortly afterward Journey stopped Brothers, who was in the gallery, saying he felt it was his duty to investigate "in view of the statements on the floor."

Earle J. Christenberry, Long's secretary, was indignant over the incident. He insisted Brothers had searched in public rather than in Journey's office as had been proposed. He said Brothers was not a body guard, and was in Washington representing the state of New Orleans.

Crowded galleries and a well-filled chamber heard Robinson and Long lash each other unmercifully. At one point the galleries applauded Robinson when he said "the time had arrived for the manhood in the senate to assert itself" to put an end to Long's tactics.

STEVE shook his head. "No," he said. "I called the hospital a little while ago and they said Vogel was just the same."

Gale's eyes searched his. "Then what is it?" There's something wrong.

"Wait until we get outside," Steve told her. When they were on the street he went on. "I thought I was going to have good news for you but Wilkins, the lawyer I hoped would help us, is out of town. May not be back for a week, they said."

"We've got to have a lawyer," Gale said firmly. "Everyone's against Phil and, oh, Steve, he's innocent! We've got to do something!"

"I know. There's a fellow Joe Gillaspie, was telling me about— young fellow who hasn't been practicing law very long. Joe said he's smart, though of course, he hasn't had as much experience as some of the other lawyers. I'll find out where he lives and have a talk with him tonight."

"Will you, Steve? Oh, I hope you can persuade him! It's so dreadful—Phil in that jail and no body doing anything to help him!"

"A lawyer is the only one who can help him. I'll see this fellow Joe told me about. If he won't take the case I'll find someone else will."

"Oh, Steve, I'll be so grateful!" "I only wish I could do more, Gale."

They walked in silence for a few moments. "The main thing," Steve went on, "is that you mustn't worry. It won't help and you'll only make yourself sick. You've got to be calm about this, Gale. Got to keep your nerve."

"I'll try. I've been—trying!" "You've done a swell job," he told her. "So far. And I know you're going to keep it up. You can't go back on Phil, you know."

"See here—you promised to keep hold of yourself. You're not going to let yourself go to pieces!" "I promise, Steve! I'll be all right. I won't force again."

She said goodbye at the door of her home. Steve said he'd drop in after he'd seen the lawyer and tell her the news. He went on down the street and Gale went up the steps slowly. A thousand years, it seemed since she'd climbed those steps the night before.

Her father looked up from his book. "Late, aren't you?" he asked.

"Yes. I—walked over town with Steve."

Tom Henderson went on with his reading. It was going to be hard to tell him what had happened—terribly hard.

Gale went through to the kitchen where Mary Cassidy was standing before the stove. Mary turned and asked, "Did you see him?"

"Phil? Yes, I saw him."

"How is he?"

"Oh, he's all right. He'll have to stay where he is—at least for a while. They won't let him leave until they know about Vogel."

"Mrs. O'Connor told me Vogel's awful bad."

"Yes. Steve telephoned the hospital a little while ago. They still won't say whether he's going to live or not."

Ruthie Cassidy got up from where she was sitting by the window. She had a sheet of paper and a pencil with which she had been drawing. Ruthie held out the finished sketch for Gale to inspect.

"See," she said proudly, "I been makin' a picture!"

Long's renewed attack on Robinson, although brief, had another large audience.

Angered at Long's insertion of the law firm's advertisement in the Record, Robinson said he had retained a connection with the firm, but received no partnership fees except in cases in which he appeared.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "in the past 10 years my duties here have become so numerous and my public responsibilities so great I have not undertaken much private practice."

He added, however, he did not consider it improper for a legislator to act as a corporation lawyer "if it does not interfere with his duties in a public capacity."

State Tournament Opens at Harrison

Pine Bluff, Little Rock, Harrison and Fordyce Among Favorites

HARRISON, Ark.—(AP)—The state high school basketball tournament opens here Thursday night with four games scheduled for the initial session.

Competition will start at 7:30 p. m. when the Beebe Badgers take on Salena, rumormongers in the second district tournament. The second contest will bring together the Little Rock Tigers, one of the pre-tournament favorites, and Texarkana, champions of the tenth district. Pine Bluff, the defending champions, and another favorite, swings into action in the third engagement, meeting Branch. The night's session will be concluded with a contest between Hickory Ridge and McNeil.

On the eve of the tournament fans had established the Zebras, Little Rock, Harrison and Fordyce as favorites and listed the highly touted Greenland quintet as the "dark horse" of the tournament.

Each of the favorites has made good records in their respective sections during the regular season, while Greenland—a Northwest Arkansas school with a 250 student body—came to the fore recently by its convincing capture of the first district title. The first district includes many good quintets, among them being Fort Smith and Fayetteville.

bill by reducing the salaries of Supreme Court judges from $7,000 to $6,000, by eliminating the $3,000 a year allowance for Judge Carroll D. Wood, retired, and by reducing allowances for the Supreme Court clerk's office.

Senator Johnson, chairman of the senate budget committee, first sent up amendments to the house bill restoring the items to the figures approved by the joint budget committee and had the amendments approved in committee of the whole. Later he announced that it would be necessary for the senate to pass the general appropriation bill as amended by the house before the upper body could proceed with consideration of other appropriation measures. He said he thought the lower amendments were bad and should be remedied, but suggested that the senate approve the bill and later pass the general appropriation bill introduced in the senate last week, with the hope that the house would pass the second bill as submitted by the budget committee. This plan would remove doubt as to legality of appropriation bills on which a final vote was taken in either house after the senate passed the house general appropriation measure.

The senate passed 13 bills, including five budget measures, and defeated three. Only two new bills were introduced.

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILLIONS of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount, causing itching and discomfort, the 15 MILLIONS of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, itchy pains, loss of sleep and constant distress on nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't remove poisons a day and get rid of them, more than 200,000 of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons, making serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 50 years. They give happy relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILLIONS of kidney tubes, get rid of poisons, and keep your kidneys in good condition.

A Thought For The Day

There is a somewhat in the souls of men that makes them to consummate their deed. To struggle on and on, unheeding when they meet with failure, or mayhap succeed. It may not matter though the way be long. Or if we go alone into the close— There is one thought to bid the heart be strong: And somewhere along the path is one who knows. Selected.

Mrs. J. T. Hicks has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Beauchamp Jr. in Little Rock.

The World Day of Prayer will be observed in this city on Friday of tomorrow at 3 o'clock at St. Mark's Episcopal church, with Miss Maggie Bell, Mrs. O. A. Graves and Mrs. Frank Stanley in charge of the program. The program is assembled and sent out by the secretaries of the Council and Foreign Mission conference in New York to the far corners of the world. The day begins in New Zealand and the Fiji Islands and as Fertilizers have added millions of dollars to crop values every year by increasing yields and improving quality. Yet, because most fertilizers left acid residues in the soil, crops could not make maximum use of the plant food in the fertilizer.

Improved Red Steer Non-Acid Forming Fertilizer—physiologically neutral—does not leave harmful acid residues. Plants can use every other of the plant food in growing to an early, big yielding maturity. Besides being made Non-Acid Forming this year, Red Steer now contains new plus values—added calcium, magnesium and other important plant foods that improve yields and quality.

Mellon Sale for Tax Purpose Only?

U. S. Contents He Owes 3 Millions Additional for Year 1931

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(AP)—Testimony that he "supposed" a sale and repurchase of 54,000 shares of stock through the joint account maintained by Andrew W. Mellon and his brother, R. B. Mellon, was for "tax loss purposes" was given Tuesday before the Tax Appeals Board by Henry A. Phillips, eldest employee of the Mellon family.

The government, seeking to sustain its $3,089,000 extra tax assessment on A. W. Mellon's income for 1931, contends that the transaction was part of a scheme to defraud the government.

Mellon's attorney, Frank J. Hogan, contends the sale was legal, because the repurchase was made more than 30 days after the sale.

Cross-examining the white-haired former bookkeeper, Robert H. Jackson asked:

"The only effect was a tax loss, then?" asked Jackson.

"That's true,"

"Isn't it true that it came about for that purpose?"

"I suppose so," replied Phillips. In the transaction, the "joint account" sold to the Union Trust company 54,000 shares of Western Public Service Company stock in December 1931, for $4 a share and repurchased it for $4.07 1/2 a little more than 30 days later.

The Mellons reported an $804,000 loss on the sale to Union Trust, one-half of which was claimed by A. W. Mellon.

Phillips denied that to his knowledge there existed any contract between his employers and the Union Trust for a repurchase.

house ways and means committee, was taken up as a special order of business Wednesday afternoon. House leaders hope to have the measure shaped up by the end of the week for final passage.

In his biennial message two months ago, Governor Park recommended that the 1/2 per cent rate be doubled. He is not opposed to the 2 per cent rate. Just before the house took up its sales tax bill, 14 senators, headed by Langdon R. Jones of Kennett and Allen McReynolds of Carthage, introduced a 2 per cent measure which they estimated would yield $20,000,000 a year.

With the two houses apparent, agreed upon the levy, it is expected they will have little difficulty in smoothing out any minor differences.

The senate bill provides for distribution of the sales tax revenue as follows:

School fund, 40 per cent; unemployment relief, 35 per cent; old-age pensions (if pension law is enacted) 10 per cent; counties for support of patients in eleemosynary institutions, 15 per cent.

Food and feed will be less plentiful and prices higher in 1935 than they were last year, due partly to the drought, and this, Mr. Stanley, pointed out, should offer incentive to cotton producers to plant only 65 per cent of their base acreage to cotton, thus making available additional land on which to produce food and feed for home consumption.

Abolition of NRA Urged by Senator

King, Utah, Turns Against Plan to Extend New Organization

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Complete abandonment of the NRA was advocated Wednesday by Senator King, Utah Democrat, in the first statement by a Democratic senator opposing President Roosevelt's recommendation for an extension of the Recovery Administration.

In an interview Senator King proposed that NRA's jurisdiction over hours and wages should be transferred to the Department of Labor, and its regulation of trade practices to the Federal Trade Commission.

To Drop 80% of Codes Copyright Associated Press WASHINGTON — (AP) — Plans by administration leaders for dropping a sizable number of NRA's 600 codes—perhaps 80 per cent—were reported Tuesday in two informal congressional quarters.

Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee, in arranging to open an inquiry into the RA Thursday, told his committee in executive session that the investigation would be simplified by the intention of officials to drop many of the smaller codes. It would not be necessary to inquire into their administration.

In another quarter it was said that administration plans for extending NRA contemplate abandoning about 80 per cent of the existing codes, including virtually all those not primarily concerned with interstate commerce.

This was interpreted in senate quarters as meaning many of the retail codes dealing with the service industries. Thus, mainly the codes for the big basic industries would be retained, it was said.

President Roosevelt has expressed his desire to retain the wage and hour provisions of the NRA, and it was pointed out today that even if 80 per cent of the existing codes were dropped around 90 per cent of the employees under codes would be covered by the remaining parts.

Dawson Sees Red

By CRANE

WOT'S YER PROPOSITION, SLICK? TAKE A LOOK AT THIS OLD NEWSPAPER CLIPPING, DAWSON.

WELL, STAB ME DEAD! IT'S THEM BUNKIN' SOFTIES, TUBBS AN' EASY—THEY'VE STRUCK GOLD IN ALASKA. THEY'RE RICH!

EXACTLY, AND HERE'S A MORE RECENT CLIPPING.

ARRESTED AS SPIES IN BULGRAVIA. BLAST THEIR ORNERY HIDES! I HOPES THEY ROT THERE.

YOU DON'T SEEM TO LIKE 'EM, BULL.

AFTER ALL THE DIRT THEY DONE TO ME, BY THUNDER, NO! IF EVER I LAYS EYES ON THEM SWABS AGIN, I'LL SETTLE THEIR HASH GOOD 'N' PROPER. I'LL WRING THEIR SKINNY NECKS. I'LL—

NO! I HAVE A BETTER PLAN.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

We Can Do Plenty!

By BLOSSER

CHIEF, I THINK THIS MAN IS INVOLVED IN A PLOT TO BLOW UP THE SHILOH!

I'LL HAVE A TALK WITH HIM!

WHAT'S YOUR NAME?

STEVEN MORDEL

TAKE HIS FINGERPRINTS, JERRY, AND CHECK 'EM WITH THE RECORDS!

THIS IS A GROSS INJUSTICE!!

I HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH ANY PLOT! I'M INNOCENT!!

ANY LUCK, JERRY?

YEAH! HE SERVED A STRETCH AT FOLSOM, UNDER ANOTHER NAME!

YOU CAN'T PIN ANYTHING ON ME!

OH, YES WE CAN! WE CAN PIN A NUMBER ON YOU, AND LET ONE OF OUR BEST PHOTOGRAPHERS SNAP AT YOU!!

Emmie Swings Into Action

By COWAN

HOSE TWO LETTERS SIGNED, "FROM A FRIEND," HAVE REACHED THEIR DESTINATION

SO! I WAS RIGHT! WHEN I READ HIS LAST LETTER, FULL OF THOSE ENDearing TERMS, THERE WAS A WOMAN MIXED UP IN IT!

WHY, SISTER! WHAT'S THE MATTER?

READ THIS, WHILE I PACK MY GRIP!

"MRS. KUHN—YOUR HUSBAND IS RUNNING AROUND WITH A BLONDE—A FRIEND"

SO THE CHEATER IS—JUST A BIG PLAYBOY, EH? WAIT TILL I LAY MY HANDS ON THAT ROMEO!

TAXI!

IT'S SURE LONESOME, SINCE TOOTS WENT BACK—IF THESE SUCKERS HAVEN'T GOT THEIR POOL OF $5000 TOGETHER, I'M S'FED UP, I THINK I'LL BEAT IT WITH WHAT I'VE GOT!

AND AL HAD BETTER DO JUST THAT, WITH EMMIE HEADING HIS WAY!

How One Woman Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat

Lost Her Prominent Hips, Double Chin, Sluggishness

Gained Physical Vigor—A Shapely Figure

If you're fat—first remove the cause. Take one half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water every morning—in 3 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—you feel younger in body—KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get a quarter pound jar of KRUSCHEN SALTS from any leading druggist anywhere in America (lasts 4 weeks). If this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—your money gladly returned. adv.
